Below is the 3-pronged test that Melinda talked about during sexual misconduct training. Val, can you send it out to the panelists for next Friday (is that appropriate?) and can it be added to the sexual misconduct manual?

Thanks,
Christine

So sorry-I completely forgot to send that!

Here it is:

- 1) Was force used?
- 2) Was the complainant incapacitated and the defendant known or should have known this?
- 3) Did the complainant verbally consent to each sexual act?

And yes-I will be out of the office Dec. 26th-Jan. 2nd but around otherwise! Let's chat

Hey Melinda -

Thanks again for helping train our panelist for sexual misconduct hearings. You mentioned a three-pronged test that you use at UNC that I think would be really useful here at Duke. Can you email it to me?

I hope all is well with you. Perhaps you and I can get together after students leave or before classes resume in January and talk about Threat Assessment teams. I coordinate our team here and am definitely interested in learning about other teams.

Thanks so much -
Christine

Nature of incident: Sexual Misconduct

Detailed account: Tuesday morning a member of the Panhellenic community informed me about an incident occurring in Southgate residence hall. The reporter of this incident heard of this matter from a member of her sorority who is a resident of Southgate. The resident reported that an unknown woman who was not a student at Duke showed up in the hall and appeared to be incredibly intoxicated and unaware of her location. From what she uttered to the students it seems that she felt that she was at UVA. Apparently no one in the hallway knew the young woman or who she might be visiting.

According to the resident of Southgate 3 young men Frank Jones, Brian Shell, and Colby Leachman, all members of Delta Sigma Phi Fraternity, took this young woman into a back area of Southgate and began having sex with her. According to the reporter they were quite obvious about what they were doing and one of the men even went down the hallway soliciting other men to have sex with the woman. There were men who took them up on this offer. As this was occurring, according to the resident, people in the hall started disappearing and didn't want to be connected with this act but also didn't move to do anything about it. No one seems to know where the young woman ended up or ever found out why she was in the residence hall. Apparently, one of the young men involved in the incident tried to find her after the act occurred but was not able to locate her.

The resident of Southgate told her sorority sister who reported this event that everyone in Southgate is aware of this incident but doesn't want to step forward and tell anyone that this happened.

The reporter of this incident went and asked one of her friends in Delta Sigma Phi if the chapter was aware of this incident. The man responded that the chapter was well aware but that the guys involved didn't know any better and that the chapter wasn't going to make a big deal about the matter.

Also, there is apparently a video recording (on a phone) of two of these same men raping a young woman that was passed around chapter meeting. From commentary made from the woman in the video it seems that she was taped without her consent.

On Thursday, the reporter came back to my office and let me know that a member of Delta Sigma Phi who is dating one of her sorority sisters went to the president of the fraternity and told him that these men needed to be spoken to about this incident and that these men needed to be kept under control. According to the reporter the president talked to the three men, they admitted to him that they did this and the chapter president stated that the three men are on social probation unless Greek Life comes after the chapter and in that case the men are on their own.

Christine,

Thanks for sharing this update on Ariana. I spent quite a bit of time with Ariana before her leave so her comments below are particularly interesting to me. I'm a little wary about making generalizations about her ability to focus her attention in the classroom based on her experience in that large lecture econ class. The pedagogy is pretty awful for almost all students. Rather than completely avoid distractions, I wonder if it would be useful to Adriana to focus at least some of the time, on strategies for managing her attention. I also wonder if the issue is also about the pace of the lecture. She can control the pace more easily on her own. Preparing really well for class can make a difference in how she stays engaged and follows a lecture. (I'm for continuing to go to class...obviously)

Hi Ariana -

It is interesting that you are feeling a little stressed about not being stressed. Have you talked with Dr. Bryce about this? As for going to class, it can turn into a very bad habit very quickly of not going to class. I don't recall, but are you registered with the Student Disability Access Office, or have you met with Dr. Blackshear in the Academic Resource Center to talk about some of these issues? I am concerned for the need to distract your mind in order to pay attention in class. My other recommendation is to meet with Dean Taylor to talk about this issue. Class attendance is important, but given what you are indicating there may be ways to meet your needs.

Please let me know what progress you make on this. If you want to meet in person after Thanksgiving, please let me know.

Thanks so much -

Hi Christine,

Thank you for the email. I am doing alright. I'm stressed about not being stressed though? I'm also pretty frustrated because I've discovered that going to class for me is actually counter productive. I have continued to go, but it is not helpful for me at all because of the adhd stuff I think. I know now that in order to like really listen, I have to have earplug headphones and be in a quiet room with not too much movement.

Anyway, it is pretty frustrating because I have a lot of class time that I feel I spend not being able to focus...any suggestions on this? This past Monday, instead of going to econ lecture with 300+ people, I worked in the Women's center, took my quiz on the internet on time when it was posted, and then went through the lecture like he normally does, but by myself in a quiet location. It worked very well for me, and I want to do this all the time, but I do not know if this is allowed. Are there every situations where students do not have to go to class?

Anyway, I have been studying a lot and enjoying it now. Classes were going pretty bad at first due to the whole readjusting factor and hating lectures, etc, but I am studying so intensively and effectively now that I'm hoping to make up for poor performance initially.

I am leaving on Tuesday to go visit my brother in D.C. I'll email you back tomorrow morning if you reply by then :) Thanks for checking up on me! :)

Best,

Ariana

I met yesterday with Ariana Qayumi and I will continue to follow her for case management. She signed roi's for Dr. Sarah Bryce in the community and Duke Student Health. Ariana shared information about a history of nutrition concerns and indicated she had met previously with Toni Apadula. Ariana plans to schedule an appointment with Toni toward the end of the month. Ariana reported that during the spring of 2011, she experienced weight loss even though she reported eating increasing amounts of food. She reported that during the Summer of 2011, she was in Africa and during the trip she had to be dewormed and that 6 worms were found. She reports that now her eating concerns are related to having more of an appetite and wanting to maintain her current weight.

Ariana reported stress regarding her career choices and is planning on following up with CAPS to meet to discuss career discernment. I suggested that she meet with a counselor at the Career Center, but Ariana was not interested in this because she serves on the Career Advisory Team (CAT) and wanted to keep that part of her life separate. I will continue this conversation with her and consult with the Career Center. She did ask if CAPS was available for emergency consultation and I suggested that she clarify those expectations with Dr. Bryce, since Dr. Bryce is Ariana's primary mental health provider.

Thanks all-
Christine

Student Witness(es):

Description: Ariana was studying in the Women's Center today as she had all week. I thought she did not look well and asked about this. She said she was bleeding but that she did not think it was time for her period and reminded me that she is being treated for polycystic ovarian syndrome and that extreme pain, anemia, bleeding and cramps are typical symptoms when it flares. She had taken an exam that morning and had eaten breakfast and I convinced her to eat lunch and rest. We ended our conversation at this point. Approximately 4 pm she came to my office in tears and asked if I could take her to student health as she did not feel up to walking. I got my car and picked her up and waiting outside for her to be seen at student health. She came back out about 15 minutes later and said that they could not see her that late in the day and they recommended going to urgent care. She agreed to let me drive her to urgent care. We checked in approximately at 4:30 and she was seen within 30 minutes. She received what she told me was appropriate treatment there and left with some prescriptions. They gave her something for the pain. We left about 7:30 pm and I drove her to her dorm at Wannamaker. She has an exam in the morning and said she planned on going to the exam. She missed her exam that was scheduled for this evening, as it started at 5:30 pm. I know she was emailing her Dean Sabrina Thomas about this. While we were at Urgent care, her mother called me and we talked on the phone. When I took her home, I asked Ariana if she would give me permission to notify appropriate people on staff about the state of her health and she agreed. When I left her around 8 pm this evening, she was in better spirits and said she would call her mother and give her an update. She also has my cell phone number in case she needs something over the weekend.

Many people on staff know that Ariana has had a very difficult time at Duke. Although I believe she is stable at the moment, I am submitting this report to keep everyone informed that there are current struggles related to her completing her academic requirements for this semester.

Hello wonderful peeps...

Please forgive my oversight but with the revision after revision, alteration after alteration I realized I double booked myself for next week. I am slotted to be at Rehoboth Beach for vacation with the in-laws and be here to do a presentation on the On-call protocol. I couldn't articulate a particular preference for either option without running the risk of ostracizing someone or possibly fear of incriminating myself... So the decision has been made by boss lady (Wife) that I will be at the Beach.

Originally we only expected to have 1 RC but do to some strings being pulled there will be 2. Who knows... There may even be three... a lot can happen in a week.

Ayesha:
I will send my thoughts on the session to you tomorrow some time (Or maybe 20 minutes before the session).

Christine:
I had made the offer for Christine to sit on the session and provide a University perspective of on-call and the DOC and ROC connection. I think that this perspective is useful and hope that you are still willing to come and help out. I know Ayesha isn't as fun as me but I believe that your presence can make up for this fun deficit.

David:
Just a reminder that you are slotted for that morning to present on Student Conduct Case meetings... I'm sure if you wanted to heckle the other two during their session I would fully support you.

Attached is the most up to date schedule as it stands currently.

Thanks for all the awesomeness that you do, represent, are... (except maybe Ayesha)

Peace,
Philip

Subject: Randolph roommate conflict

Hey Chris-

I spoke with the parents of student Ariana Qayumi -she is a Randolph resident, her parents thought it was room [REDACTED]. Anyway, there is a concern about Ariana's ability to spend time in the room, because her roommate, [REDACTED] is always there. From what Ariana's parents told me it sounds like Ariana has spoken to the RA and they have done some roommate mediation and discussions. I mentioned a roommate agreement between Ariana and [REDACTED], but her parents were not sure if such an agreement had been discussed. It sounds like things are improving slightly, in that [REDACTED] has made a few friends, but she still spends nearly all of her time in the room, resulting in Ariana not being able to be in the room. According to Ariana's parents, [REDACTED] spends all of her time watching tv. Ariana is the student coordinator for Devil's after Dark, so you may know her through that.

It sounds like [REDACTED] may be homesick, lonely, isolated or may have some other stuff going on. I wanted to let you know what I had said/did. Thanks for all you do.

Hey Melinda -

Thanks again for helping train our panelist for sexual misconduct hearings. You mentioned a three-pronged test that you use at UNC that I think would be really useful here at Duke. Can you email it to me?

I hope all is well with you. Perhaps you and I can get together after students leave or before classes resume in January and talk about Threat Assessment teams. I coordinate our team here and am definitely interested in learning about other teams.

Thanks so much -
Christine

Hi Sheila -

Attached is the protocol for the Dean/RC on-Call for incidents of sexual misconduct and gender violence. Please let me know if there are any changes - I do have a few questions/suggestions

1. Should the protocol remain titled "Sexual Harassment and Sexual Assault Response?" It seems that Gender Violence has now been infused into the vernacular enough that it could be changed.
2. Do I have the phone numbers correct for you? I think I have the google number that you started using - the 919-886-6814. Assuming that is accurate, should I remove the secondary cell phone number?

Let me know if you have other changes. If possible, please return this to me by July 18.

Thanks,
Christine

THANKS AGAIN for covering for me next week. I will be back in the office on Friday. The students to keep on your "watch list" are:

██████████ - okay as of today. Has appt with CAPS on Monday (Ayesha Chaudhary) and Dr. Conner at Main Street Clinical on Thursday. CAPS is very informed of his case and can help if anything comes up. We are Ok to contact parents if needed.

Ariana Qayumi- Baishakhi and I will meet with her today at 2:15, I will have her sign ROI's for Dr. Sarah Bryce and Sheila, she should be seen by Sarah today.

██████████ - Wellness check requested this week by professor, he has since returned to class but was "distraught" professor recommended CAPS. I have asked him to come see me but have not heard back, advised that prof. or Deans (Franzoni/Simmons) not provide any further accommodations/assistance without documentation that he has see me (you)/CAPS. Goal will be to get him to CAPS and get a ROI.

██████████ - has not been doing great last few weeks in dealing with parents divorce, he is well plugged in to MH treatment but has occasional panic calls for academic assistance- cant complete papers, etc--- refer him to Gerald.

Those are the ones I can think of.
I hope hope hope it is a quiet week. I'll have my cell if you need me.

Hello New Members!

We are eagerly approaching the first date of new member training for the Undergraduate Conduct Board. As a reminder, we are convening at 1 PM in Perkins 217 on Friday, September 9. I'm looking forward to seeing you all there! If you have NOT done so already, please email me if you will be delayed or have an academic/athletic commitment.

In order to prepare you for the training, I've developed a fun online quiz for you to take at your convenience before the training. The quiz tests your knowledge of the undergraduate disciplinary process and will direct our discussion at the beginning of the session. We're not keeping score on this one, so don't feel bad about not knowing the right answers -- but don't be tempted to search for the answers, either! At the end of the survey, you'll be directed to a Results page. Please print this page out and bring it with you to training on the 9th. You can ignore the statistics piece - it's your answers that matter.

Follow this link to the Survey:

Amy and Christine,

Ariana Qayumi is currently on a MLOA. She started an application to join the Wellness Community for Spring 2012 before she took her MLOA and recently contacted me about renewing her application for this coming Fall 2012. I assume that like some of our other students who have applied, she'll need to be approved to return? What do you expect that process to look like for her?

Amy and Christine,

Please find a list of students returning for fall 2012 whom the Office of Student Returns brought to your attention, or the student was asked to contact your office. Under separate cover you will receive a master list of students returning. Please feel free to review the master list to determine students with whom you have a previous relationship. :-)

Sincerely,

Sabrina

P.S.

Please remember that students who have not signed their decision letter will not be activated.

Dear Ariana -

I work as an Assistant Dean of Students in the Dean of Students Office and one of my responsibilities is to work with students who are returning from a leave of absence. I assist in connecting students to both on and off campus resources that might support their transition as they return to campus. I understand from Dean Thomas that you have returned this semester and that your return letter requires that you continue treatment with Dr. Sarah Bryce.

In order to assist you with your transition I would be interested in meeting with you next week. After consulting your academic calendar I found that we are mutually available to meet on Tuesday September 4, 2012, at 10:15am. My office is on East Campus in the Crowell building, room 216. Crowell is next to Epworth Dorm and behind the Friedl building. Please let me know if this will work for you.

Sincerely,
Christine Pesetski

Good morning Christi,

Thank you for the email. I put the meeting at 10:15am this Tuesday on my calendar. Just a heads up that my schedule has, and is continuing to, go through some changes. Because I had post 3rd bracket sign up for classes, I have been waitlisted in a majority of the courses I had planned to take. As of right now, my first class on Tuesday ends at 9:45am on west; I think that I will be able to make it over to east in time for our meeting, but in the case that I am somehow a few minutes late, I just wanted to give you the heads up.

See you then,

Ariana Qayumi

Ariana reported that during the spring of 2011, she experienced weight loss even though she reported eating increasing amounts of food. She reported that during the Summer of 2011, she was in Africa and during the trip she had to be dewormed and that 6 worms were found. She reports that now her eating concerns are related to having more of an appetite and wanting to maintain her current weight.

Ariana reported stress regarding her career choices and is planning on following up with CAPS to meet to discuss career discernment. I suggested that she meet with a counselor at the Career Center, but Ariana was not interested in this because she serves on the Career Advisory Team (CAT) and wanted to keep that part of her life separate. I will continue this conversation with her and consult with the Career Center. She did ask if CAPS was available for emergency consultation and I suggested that she clarify those expectations with Dr. Bryce, since Dr. Bryce is Ariana's primary mental health provider.

Generally, seeing a psychiatrist in the community wouldn't prohibit the career testing/counseling at CAPS. It's always a good idea to check this out when a student is receiving case management services though. We'd like to have a chance to consider whether the student is appropriate for CAPS in other ways (i.e., isn't using career counseling as a back door into CAPS when longer term therapy is really what's needed).

Thanks,

Jeff

Greetings -

You are receiving this because you have returned to Duke during Summer 2012 or this Fall 2012 after a period of time away from Duke. Each of you have different experiences with Duke prior to your leave and many of you have expressed a similar desire to me or my colleagues in the Dean of Students Office to get to know other students who have taken time away from Duke. As such, I have put together a dinner reception to celebrate your return and to enable you to get to know one another. I have also invited colleagues from different offices across campus to help you connect with staff members, learn about important offices and ways to connect socially and academically. The dinner will be on Thursday September 27, 2012, at 7:00pm in the Wellness Center on East Campus. The Wellness Center is located in the ground level (garden level) of the Crowell building, below the Coffeehouse. The entrance faces Buchanan Blvd.

I will be sending an evite to this group, please let me know if you will be attending the dinner by responding to the evite that will follow this invitation.

On behalf of all of my colleagues at Duke, we are glad you have returned and want to work to make your Duke experience meaningful.

Sincerely,
Christine Pesetski

Hi Christine,

Thank you for the email. However, I have a class that runs from 6:15-8:45pm each Thursday (MMS 370 with Tiryakian). Is there any way that you can reschedule the dinner for another night, could we possibly move up the meeting time, or could I come late?

Best,

Ariana Qayumi

Greetings -

You are receiving this because you have returned to Duke during Summer 2012 or this Fall 2012 after a period of time away from Duke. Each of you have different experiences with Duke prior to your leave and many of you have expressed a similar desire to me or my colleagues in the Dean of Students Office to get to know other students who have taken time away from Duke. As such, I have put together a dinner reception to celebrate your return and to enable you to get to know one another. I have also invited colleagues from different offices across campus to help you connect with staff members, learn about important offices and ways to connect socially and academically. The dinner will be on Thursday September 27, 2012, at 7:00pm in the Wellness Center on East Campus. The Wellness Center is located in the ground level (garden level) of the Crowell building, below the Coffeehouse. The entrance faces Buchanan Blvd.

I will be sending an evite to this group, please let me know if you will be attending the dinner by responding to the evite that will follow this invitation.

On behalf of all of my colleagues at Duke, we are glad you have returned and want to work to make your Duke experience meaningful.

Hi Ariana -

I just want to confirm for you that the dinner is on 9/27, not 9/20. I mistyped the Evite, but have since corrected it.

I just don't want you coming to a dinner a week early due to my typo. I hope all is well with you.

Hi Christine,

Thank you very much. I will text you my number now. See you September 20th around 9pm. (I think my professor will allow me to leave early so that I can arrive closer to 7:30 or 8pm, but I will ask him before asserting so.)

Dear Ariana -

I am so glad you were able to make it to dinner last week. I hope your classes are going well for you and that you are getting ready for Fall Break. I had a phone call from Dr. Bryce and she was concerned that you have not returned her calls or met with her yet since you returned this fall. I too am very concerned as part of your expectations in returning from a medical leave is that you will remain in treatment with Dr. Bryce or another clinician. Please let me know the time and date of your next appointment with Dr. Bryce. If you have questions or need assistance please let me know.

Thanks so much -

Thanks. I met and talked with Dr. Blackshear and am meeting with Ben Cooke this Thursday to review how I take notes for probability. I used some of my research/work study money to buy an iPad and have been using that to take notes. It has been very helpful and my classes are going well; not to mention, aced one of my midterms!

Hope your break was good too!

Hi Ariana -

It is interesting that you are feeling a little stressed about not being stressed. Have you talked with Dr. Bryce about this? As for going to class, it can turn into a very bad habit very quickly of not going to class. I don't recall, but are you registered with the Student Disability Access Office, or have you met with Dr. Blackshear in the Academic Resource Center to talk about some of these issues? I am concerned for the need to distract your mind in order to pay attention in class. My other recommendation is to meet with Dean Taylor to talk about this issue. Class attendance is important, but given what you are indicating there may be ways to meet your needs.

Please let me know what progress you make on this. If you want to meet in person after Thanksgiving, please let me know.

Thanks so much -

Hi Christine,

Thank you for the email. I am doing alright. I'm stressed about not being stressed though? I'm also pretty frustrated because I've discovered that going to class for me is actually counter productive. I have continued to go, but it is not helpful for me at all because of the adhd stuff I think. I know now that in order to like really listen, I have to have earplug headphones and be in a quiet room with not too much movement.

Anyway, it is pretty frustrating because I have a lot of class time that I feel I spend not being able to focus...any suggestions on this? This past Monday, instead of going to econ lecture with 300+ people, I worked in the Women's center, took my quiz on the internet on time when it was posted, and then went through the lecture like he normally does, but by myself in a quiet location. It worked very well for me, and I want to do this all the time, but I do not know if this is allowed. Are there every situations where students do not have to go to class?

Anyway, I have been studying a lot and enjoying it now. Classes were going pretty bad at first due to the whole readjusting factor and hating lectures, etc, but I am studying so intensively and effectively now that I'm hoping to make up for poor performance initially.

I am leaving on Tuesday to go visit my brother in D.C. I'll email you back tomorrow morning if you reply by then :) Thanks for checking up on me! :)

Best,

Ariana

Hi Christine,

Good to hear from you. However, last semester ended horribly; a severe health issue surfaced, but I was unaware that it was occurring, or even that I could ask to delay exams, and ended up trying to just take my finals while extremely ill. The illness is chronic and will never go away, but it is alleviated now, and my doctors understand what is going on/how we need to go about treating it finally.

That said, I am meeting with multiple different people regularly to take care of it alongside school; they have been extremely helpful, and things are going smoothly so far. Hope all is well on your end.

Best,

Ariana

This is the first I have heard of it too. I know Ariana well as she is a part of the Wellness community. She recently reported having a difficult time sleeping due to a new schedule. She said that she is on three club sports teams and needs to go to bed early in order to get everything done but her roommate, Gina, stayed up late and the light in the room bothered her. Gina has moved to the first floor (or at least should have, not sure if it has been completed) and I have not heard further from Ariana since the room switch was approved. She does not hesitate to share her opinions with me, so I am surprised I haven't heard much if it is as drastic as she makes it sound. Also, when talking about her need for sleep with the potential room change, she never mentioned her health issues.

Hi Christine,

Good to hear from you. However, last semester ended horribly; a severe health issue surfaced, but I was unaware that it was occurring, or even that I could ask to delay exams, and ended up trying to just take my finals while extremely ill. The illness is chronic and will never go away, but it is alleviated now, and my doctors understand what is going on/how we need to go about treating it finally.

That said, I am meeting with multiple different people regularly to take care of it alongside school; they have been extremely helpful, and things are going smoothly so far. Hope all is well on your end.

Best,

Ariana

Hi Christine,

Thank you for the concern, but meeting now would be overwhelming because I have already set up a schedule with others. However, I will keep in touch via email and schedule a catch-up meeting mid-way through the semester.

To answer your query, I notified Dr. Bryce right when I realized the bleeding was abnormal and have kept her updated via phone and with in-person meetings since. Dean Thomas also already knows about what happened and what has been happening - I visit her every week and we are in frequent communication. In addition to that, I meet with my university doctors every other week. The constant communication between me, Dean Thomas, my doctors, and professors has been extremely helpful. I am feeling a lot better, but there are still things to be learned about how to live with this and the doctors are working with me while I go through this process.

Hope all is well on your end and talk to you later in the semester.

Best,

Ariana

Thanks for the email update. I am concerned about your chronic health issue. Did you share this concern with Dr. Bryce? Were you able to work with doctors at student health? I will let your academic dean, Dean Sabrina Thomas know of your health concern. In the future, if you have academic concerns at the end of the semester (or at any time) Dean Thomas is the person to be in contact with.

Please let me know if you would like to schedule an appointment to meet.

When you returned from LOA in the fall we met and I have continued to check in with you to see if you need any assistance. I would be happy to meet with you this week to see how I can help you coordinate your medical appointments. For testing accommodations, SDAO is best positioned to assist you in setting up your accommodations. Let me know if you would like to meet this week to work together to set up medical appointments, testing accommodations and any other needs.

Hi Christine,

Thank you for following up.

Things are pretty rough right now this semester. I am struggling to compartmentalize the trials and my school work. I might have to withdraw from Spanish if my teacher won't give me an extended deadline. It would be helpful if my teacher understood the amount of stress I have, but I have already talked with my Dean about this and they have already chatted.

I will update you Monday after the final decision is made.

Hi there -

I ran a report (successfully after 3 attempts) for the case management students who will graduate in spring or summer. The total number is 67 students. However, I added a column and put an "x" next to students in M-Z who I am confident will graduate and a "?" next to the ones that I am just not sure about. Can you do the same thing for the spring/summer students in the A-L section so we can see how many we actually have graduating? Then I think we further decide if we just invite Spring 2013 people separately from Summer 2013 people.

Given the likely high number, I think we send whatever survey/questionnaire to them electronically and invite them to come in to provide additional face-to-face feedback. What do you both think?

Hi Christine,

I met with Sarah a while back and she mentioned that what I told her didn't match up to what you pulled up in your email. I pulled up my records as well and they showed that you replied each time within about a week. I had told Sarah that you were unresponsive, and I didn't know what I was supposed to go to you about so I just went to Dean Thomas. I still feel this way, but I was wrong in saying that you didn't reply to my emails - because you clearly did eventually. But I had also written a terribly emotional draft that I thankfully never sent, and I think I was referring to this when I spoke with Sarah.

All in all, it comes down to a miscommunication on my part, and I apologize for not clearly voicing my concerns. I understand your role now and will continue to check in and contact you regarding necessities.

I hope all is well, and let's touch base after finals. Let me know if you are still here the week of May 4th.

The Ecoteach Conference room is booked solid through until Sunday. I do not have any Ecoteach office spaces available after 5:00pm and, due to security issues, the O3 Conference room cannot be used after 5:00pm either. (Though it is available from 1:00pm-5:00pm tomorrow)

Is this for an accommodated exam? If so, you can contact your case manager who can assist you in finding a location.

A Care Report has been entered into ADVOCATE.
SOC Report #: C00438-2013

Concern identified by: Sheila Broderick
Student Affairs Staff

Report Date: May 3, 2013 9:55 PM

Incident Date: May 03, 2013

Location:

Student(s) Involved:
Ariana Qayumi

Concern Type:
Health/Illness/Disability

Description of concern: Ariana was studying in the Women's Center today as she had all week. I thought she did not look well and asked about this. She said she was bleeding but that she did not think it was time for her period and reminded me that she is being treated for polycystic ovarian syndrome and that extreme pain, anemia, bleeding and cramps are typical symptoms when it flares. She had taken an exam that morning and had eaten breakfast and I convinced her to eat lunch and rest. We ended our conversation at this point. Approximately 4 pm she came to my office in tears and asked if I could take her to student health as she did not feel up to walking. I got my car and picked her up and waiting outside for her to be seen at student health. She came back out about 15 minutes later and said that they could not see her that late in the day and they recommended going to urgent care. She agreed to let me drive her to urgent care. We checked in approximately at 4:30 and she was seen within 30 minutes. She received what she told me was appropriate treatment there and left with some prescriptions. They gave her something for the pain. We left about 7:30 pm and I drove her to her dorm at Wannamaker. She has an exam in the morning and said she planned on going to the exam. She missed her exam that was scheduled for this evening, as it started at 5:30 pm. I know she was emailing her Dean Sabrina Thomas about this. While we were at Urgent care, her mother called me and we talked on the phone. When I took her home, I asked Ariana if she would give me permission to notify appropriate people on staff about the state of her health and she agreed. When I left her around 8 pm this evening, she was in better spirits and said she would call her mother and give her an update. She also has my cell phone number in case she needs something over the weekend.

Many people on staff know that Ariana has had a very difficult time at Duke. Although I believe she is stable at the moment, I am submitting this report to keep everyone informed that there are current struggles related to her completing her academic requirements for this semester.

I would be glad to meet with you this week and hope we can find a time. I decided to send this message to both your Duke and Gmail accounts in case you only check one and not the other. I am out of the office on Thursday and Friday of this week and have included my available time for Tuesday and Wednesday below. I did not include tomorrow, as you indicated it would not work for you. Please let me know what will work for you-

Tuesday -
2:15pm-3pm

Wednesday
1-2pm
3-4pm

Thanks so much and I look forward to seeing you.

Sincerely,
Christine Pesetski

Dear Ariana -

Thanks for your email and yes, I would still like to get together with you. How about Thursday July 11, 2013 between 3-5pm? I could also do Tuesday July 9, 2013, from 4-5pm if you will be in town at that time.

I have put holds on my calendar for these three hours for you. Please let me know what works for you.

Thanks so much-

Hi Christine,

Apologies about not emailing sooner. Thank you for setting aside time to talk with me; I appreciate that you were so accommodating. Unfortunately, I have had a lot on my plate related to administration at Duke. I promise I will catch you up eventually, but now is not the time for everything.

In short, I have a sexual misconduct hearing (of which I am the complainant) this summer on July 12th at 1PM EST. The event that occurred my freshman year was never confronted by the university and is only now going to a hearing. If you are on campus that week, I would like to touch base as I had intended to before leaving campus; however, I will have a full schedule and am not set on the dates I will be there yet. I will let you know as the time nears.

Regardless, I hope you have a good summer, and I will be in touch mid-July.

Sincerely,

Ariana Qayumi

How are you? Hope the summer ended well. I am hoping after orientation I can meet with you at some point to catch up☺.
Ariyana Qayumi's mom called me today-- she had some concern's regarding Ariana's safety and living environment on campus.
I talked to Dean Fox and she suggested that if Mrs. Qayumi continues to have such concern that she might benefit from talking to you.
I will suggest to Mrs. Qayumi that in future, if she has concerns that are outside the scope of Ariana's academic path, then she can also talk to you.
Please call me if you have any questions at 9194027420.
Look forward to see you soon.
Have a great Orientation week.

Christine,

Thanks for sharing this update on Ariana. I spent quite a bit of time with Ariana before her leave so her comments below are particularly interesting to me. I'm a little wary about making generalizations about her ability to focus her attention in the classroom based on her experience in that large lecture econ class. The pedagogy is pretty awful for almost all students. Rather than completely avoid distractions, I wonder if it would be useful to Adriana to focus at least some of the time, on strategies for managing her attention. I also wonder if the issue is also about the pace of the lecture. She can control the pace more easily on her own. Preparing really well for class can make a difference in how she stays engaged and follows a lecture. (I'm for continuing to go to class...obviously)

Ariana Qayumi is a student I follow for case management. Please see her email below regarding class attendance and needing a quiet location to do her work. I am not sure if she is registered with SDAO or if she works with anyone at the Academic Resource Center.

I thought Baishakhi Taylor was her Dean, but she must have declared recently and switched to Sabrina Thomas, I have copied both on this email.

I wanted you all to see this as an fyi.

Thanks,
Christine

Hi Ariana -

It is interesting that you are feeling a little stressed about not being stressed. Have you talked with Dr. Bryce about this? As for going to class, it can turn into a very bad habit very quickly of not going to class. I don't recall, but are you registered with the Student Disability Access Office, or have you met with Dr. Blackshear in the Academic Resource Center to talk about some of these issues? I am concerned for the need to distract your mind in order to pay attention in class. My other recommendation is to meet with Dean Taylor to talk about this issue. Class attendance is important, but given what you are indicating there may be ways to meet your needs.

Please let me know what progress you make on this. If you want to meet in person after Thanksgiving, please let me know.

Thanks so much -

Hi Christine,

Thank you for the email. I am doing alright. I'm stressed about not being stressed though? I'm also pretty frustrated because I've discovered that going to class for me is actually counter productive. I have continued to go, but it is not helpful for me at all because of the adhd stuff I think. I know now that in order to like really listen, I have to have earplug headphones and be in a quiet room with not too much movement.

Anyway, it is pretty frustrating because I have a lot of class time that I feel I spend not being able to focus...any suggestions on this? This past Monday, instead of going to econ lecture with 300+ people, I worked in the Women's center, took my quiz on the internet on time when it was posted, and then went through the lecture like he normally does, but by myself in a quiet location. It worked very well for me, and I want to do this all the time, but I do not know if this is allowed. Are there every situations where students do not have to go to class?

Anyway, I have been studying a lot and enjoying it now. Classes were going pretty bad at first due to the whole readjusting factor and hating lectures, etc, but I am studying so intensively and effectively now that I'm hoping to make up for poor performance initially.

I am leaving on Tuesday to go visit my brother in D.C. I'll email you back tomorrow morning if you reply by then :) Thanks for checking up on me! :)

Best,

Ariana

Subject: FW: Student of Concern Report Notification

Fyi – I left a voicemail message for Ariana's off campus therapist, Dr. Sarah Bryce. Below is the email Ariana sent me on Saturday in response to my check in with her. I will continue to follow her for case management. - Christine

Hi Christine,

Thank you for following up.

Things are pretty rough right now this semester. I am struggling to compartmentalize the trials and my school work. I might have to withdraw from Spanish if my teacher won't give me an extended deadline. It would be helpful if my teacher understood the amount of stress I have, but I have already talked with my Dean about this and they have already chatted.

I will update you Monday after the final decision is made.

Best,

Concern Type:

Description of concern: COPY TO A CARE REPORT: SUMMARY - Ariana reported her to RA that she was pursuing a sexual misconduct legal case. She stated to the RA that she believed she had to report the legal situation to her RA. Ariana stated to her RA that she does not feel comfortable being alone and has considered telling her friends what is going on. She told the RA that her various deans know what is going on.

At 6:45pm, Ariana Qayumi, one of my residents, came in to talk to me. She told me that she had to notify me of something. We went into my room to discuss. She said that she is currently pursuing a sexual misconduct legal case for events that happened to her during her freshman year. She had thought that the responsible students were expelled, but she recently saw one of them on campus. It is for this reason that she is taking further legal action now. She did not name specific students, but she said that a number of them were wrestlers. She said that the legal processes were underway and that her deans already know about the situation. She was told that she needed to notify me, her RA. She also said that she would have documents for me in the near future.

She did not want to pursue the subject further, saying that because of the complexity of the legal proceedings, she could not discuss the topic in great detail. Instead, I just asked her about how she was holding up. She said is currently overloading with 5 classes and many extracurriculars, so she has been quite stressed. She said that the next week would be a challenge because of all the legal meetings she would have to attend. Her mother will be arriving soon to assist in the process. Ariana said that she "really wanted people around her right now because she does not feel safe alone." I asked her if she feels unsafe in the residence hall, but she said it was not the dormitory specifically - she just did not want to be alone in general. She was concerned that the previous offenders might hurt her. I had noticed that she had taken her name door dec down from her door. She has been asking various friends to study with her and eat with her. She was considering telling her other friends about the situation. She said that a few of them had noticed her mood and asked her about it. She would usually just say it was stress from school, but she was not sure if she wanted to tell others. Her former roommate, Gina Au, already knows. Ariana also mentioned an instance of being extremely "affected" by a video shown at a mental health event about sexual misconduct.

If and when Ariana bring documents to me, I will take them to the Crowell-Wannamaker RC, Emily Baker, unless directed otherwise. I also plan to invite Ariana to lunch/dinner with me more often. I was not sure what recommendation to make about her indecision in wanting to discuss this with others, but I did say that she was welcome to come talk to me. I informed her that I would need to write an incident report and notify Emily Baker. She did not seem to be happy about this, so I clarified that it was not to get her in trouble and also that only a select number of administrators see it. She said that her deans already know about this, so it should not be an issue. She seemed to relax a little after saying this.

Plan: Stephen Bryan is handling the allegations. Will share this information with Ariana's academic dean, HDRL, Sheila Broderick and her community therapist.
